Community planning firm promotes seven, including one to shareholder Glatting Jackson promotes five Orlando-based and two Atlanta-based team members

(Atlanta) – Orlando-based community planning firm Glatting Jackson Kercher Anglin, Inc. recently promoted seven employees to new positions within the company, including a new shareholder.

Ed McKinney, AICP, an urban designer in the firm’s Atlanta office, was tapped to become a principal and shareholder of the firm. McKinney, who has a Master of Architecture and a Master of City and Regional Planning from Georgia Institute of Technology, joined the firm in 1996. His work to help clients create context-sensitive solutions for redeveloping urban and suburban areas has been recognized with awards for projects throughout the country, including Baltimore, Md.; Orlando, Fla.; Plainfield, Ill.; and Santa Barbara, Calif.

The following Orlando-based team members have been promoted to associates:

- Hayley Harrison, ASLA, landscape architect; Bachelor of Landscape Architecture from University of Florida; joined the firm in 2003
- Jay Wozniak, ASLA, LEED AP®, landscape architect; Bachelor of Science in Landscape Architecture with a minor in City and Regional Planning from The Ohio State University; joined the firm in 2001
- Kevin Aust, ASLA, LEED AP®, landscape architect; Bachelor of Science in Landscape Architecture from Purdue University; joined the firm in 2002
- Mike Haynes, graphic artist; Bachelor of Arts in Film and Television from University of Central Florida; joined the firm in 1997
- Andrew Nothstine, urban planner; Master of City and Regional Planning from University of Pennsylvania; joined the firm in 2005

The following Atlanta-based team member also has been promoted to associate:

- Joel Mann, AICP, planner; Master of Regional Planning from University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill; joined the firm in 2004

“Our new associates and shareholder are talented professionals who exemplify our high standards for innovation and talent,” said Tim Jackson, chief executive officer and president of Glatting Jackson. “We’re incredibly proud of their accomplishments and thank them for their contributions to our firm and our clients’ projects.”
